

neighborhood, in their best array, sat on the door-sills, crouched on the sidewalk, or walked uneasily about. The bullies, pugilists, short boys, and fighters that swarm this neighborhood gathered in knots not far from Allen's door, conspicuous among whom was Kit Burns, who keeps the notorious den for dog fighters near Allen's dance-house. The shutters in Allen's house were closed. The door was thrown wide open. The bar stood, but all the drinkables had been removed. Several clerical gentlemen occupied the little gallery assigned to the fiddlers. The seat of honor was given to Mrs. Allen and her children. Allen made himself generally conspicuous in assigning people seats or standing room. The whole house was packed, and among the audience were a few keepers of dance-houses, and a few dancing girls. The meeting partook of the nature of a camp meeting. It was said that Mr. Allen called it himself, without the advice of any one. The burden of the prayers and addresses was that Allen and his family might be converted.

ALLEN MAKES A SPEECH.

At the close of the meeting, opportunity was given to Mr. Allen to make an address. It was supposed from the addresses and prayers that he was really desirous to reform his life—that he was seeking to abandon his practices and to become a Christian. This illusion was put to flight when he was called upon to speak. He is very ignorant and does not know the use of words. He expressed no penitence for his past life, but contended that he had done a great deal of good in his establishment, for which he got no credit. The idea of becoming a public lecturer, and getting both fame and money still haunts him. He gave a specimen of the style of lecture he should give. He was interrupted in about three minutes, as his speech turned the whole prayer meeting into a farce. He withdrew with a half-finished sentence on his lips. At the conclusion of the exercises, he stood at the door and held a levee—patronizing the audience—shaking hands with the multitude—thanking them for their attendance, and asking them to come again to-morrow.

BURLEIGH.

Electricity on Mountains.

M. Henri de Saussure has published an interesting paper in the Bibliothèque Universelle on a phenomenon which has but recently attracted attention. Having reached the summit of the Piz Surley, a mountain composed of crystalline rocks in the Grisons, and 3200 metres in elevation, M. de Saussure and his party laid their alpenstocks against the summit, and prepared to take their rest. Almost at the same moment the narrator felt at his back, in the left shoulder, a very acute pain, like that produced by a pin slightly pressed into the flesh, and when he put his hand to the spot without finding anything, a similar pain was felt in the right shoulder. Supposing his overcoat to contain pins, he took it off, but the pains increased, extended by a pricking sensation and sharp shooting pains, such as a wasp crawling over the skin and stinging all the time might produce.

The pain next assumed the character of a burn, and M. de Saussure actually fancied that his flannel waistcoat had caught fire, and was about to throw off the rest of his clothes, when his attention was arrested by a sound reminding him of the reverberations of a tuning fork. These sounds came from the sticks, which, resting against the cairn, sang loudly, emitting a sound like that of a kettle, the water in which is about to boil. All this lasted about four or five minutes. M. de Saussure at once guessed that his sensations proceeded from a flow of electricity taking place from the summit of the mountain. No spark, however, was obtained from the sticks; they vibrated strongly in the hand, and sounded very loud. Some minutes afterwards he felt his hair and beard stand out, causing him to feel the sensation resulting from a razor passing dry over the bristles.

A young Frenchman who was of the party cried out that he felt the hair of his moustache growing, and that strong currents were flowing from the tips of his ears; and they soon flowed from the bodies of those present. As they descended the mountain the humming of the sticks and other phenomena diminished and eventually ceased. The sky was cloudy, and the travellers had been overtaken at the time by a shower of thin hail and sleet. On the same day a violent storm broke out in the Bernese Alps, where an English woman was killed. Sleet, frost and an overcast sky appear to be the conditions necessary for the production of the phenomena above described. Many of the guides have never observed them, and others recollected them only once or twice.—N. Y. Evening Post.

The Boys in Blue.

Wm. Oland Bourne has started a Campaign Paper in New York, office at No. 12, Centre Street, with the title above as the Soldier's Friend. It is full of life, well calculated to arouse those who fought in the rebellion to an earnest activity to secure the fruits of their victory at the coming election. From a recent issue we take the following:

We need scarcely urge upon the soldiers and sailors who so successfully fought the battles of the country in the late war, the importance of early and efficient organization throughout the Union. Every State, County, and District should be organized without delay. To our ears the old song gains a new significance as we weigh the tremendous consequences to our country, and to humanity, of defeat or victory in the present campaign. We stand at the graves of our comrades who lingered, starved or were slain in rebel prisons, or who fell nobly on the field of battle, or who came home to die—the martyrs who have "gone before," while we remain to maintain the cause for which they died—and the voices come to us with wondrous power. We hear them sing:

"We are springing to the call of our brothers gone before,
Shouting the battle-cry of Freedom!
And we'll all be the vacant ranks with a million freemen more,
Shouting the battle-cry of Freedom!"

Let a million of "Boys in Blue," with the Stars and Stripes they have saved, carry it floating high over the head of our brave leader, and place him in the seat where he will be enabled to prove his loyalty and his sagacity, by maintaining the government he was so largely instrumental in rescuing from the bloody grasp of treason and war. Boys in Blue! close up the ranks, and let us march on to victory!

Republican Nominations

FOR PRESIDENT,

ULYSSES S. GRANT.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT,

SCHUYLER COLFAX.

VERMONT.

For Electors at Large—GEORGE W. GRANDEY, of Vergennes; H. FAIRBANKS, of St. Johnsbury.

For Elector—Third District—GEORGE WILKINS, of Stowe.

The Reception.

The notice given by the Hon. Bradley Barlow that he would be pleased to entertain his friends at the Welden House on Friday evening, met with a very general and hearty response from all portions of Franklin County, showing that, if all his friends could not be present, at least a good share of his majority on the Senatorial ticket was present to enjoy the occasion and congratulate Mr. Barlow upon his deserved and complete success. At nine o'clock the Welden House was well filled, several hundred gentlemen being present, and, after stirring music by the Brigade Band, those in attendance filed into the dining-room, where the band was, and gathered around the tables, amply stored with the best fruits of the Welden's cookery. The lunch was one of the most successful efforts of the kind ever served up at the Welden, which has already a good reputation in that line. After all had partaken of the viands, the tables were cleared and preparations made for "a few remarks" from our home orators. Mr. Barlow was called on welcome to his friends, and then called for L. L. Dutcher, Esq., who responded handsomely and stated that he had left the Democratic party at the same time with Mr. Barlow, and for the same reasons—its preference for slavery and Southern rule, rather than the lawful rule of a majority of the people, and the supremacy of Constitutional liberty—and he branded the assertion that Mr. Barlow, and such former Democrats as came out for the Union cause, were not to be trusted, as false. He said that those men, and Mr. Barlow among them, had proved their love of country and of liberty; and that to make their former connection with a party which they discarded the moment it deserted to the enemy a test of their worth as men, was insulting them for their very devotion to the truth and right. The speaker was repeatedly cheered, and his fluent and eloquent remarks were an indication of his deep feeling of gratification at the success of an old companion in politics, one worthy of the honor which had been accorded him at the hands of the freemen of this County.

Col. Benton was called out, after music by the band, and declined to do more than furnish a substitute, which he did by presenting Myron Buck, Esq. Mr. Buck gave a brief and humorous description of our politics for the last two or three years, and confessed that he had been among the Philistines. But this Fall, he was happy to say, when so much of more than local interest depended upon the action of Vermont, he was glad that sectional feelings had been subordinated to the common good, and that the regular ticket had been successful. Some of Mr. Buck's remarks were very neat specimens of forensic "parry and thrust," and elicited expressions of hearty applause.

Albert Clarke, Esq., of the Messenger, was called out next, and made a very neat speech, as he always does, and our interest in it was such that we forgot we were a reporter, until Mr. Clarke had nearly finished. Mr. Clarke is an earnest and pleasant speaker, and did credit to his ability on this occasion. He was frequently applauded.

Hon. W. C. Smith, our re-elected Member of Congress, was next called for. Mr. Smith alluded to the remarks of Mr. Buck, to the effect that he did not exactly know how, in the Baxter and Hoyt contest, Mr. Smith had come in winner, and said that he could not explain the fact to Mr. Buck, as he never could see through it himself. Mr. Smith then expressed his pleasure at the result of the recent election in our County and Town, and was glad that the Young America element had achieved able representation in both Houses of our Legislature. He rejoiced that no voice of discord would mar the harmony of the Senate of Vermont this year. He spoke in warm terms of the devotion of Vermonters at home and abroad, to principle, and was sure this devotion had a marked influence upon the whole country. Mr. Smith spoke briefly and directly, as is usual with him, and was frequently greeted with applause.

Messrs. A. G. Safford, Willard Farrington, our newly elected State's Attorney, and Capt. A. Barnes, of the TRANSCRIPT, were next called for in turn, and responded briefly, the lateness of the hour forbidding much beyond a few expressions of good feeling at the success of our cause in this County and in the State, by such decided majorities. It being midnight, the band played a parting piece, and the reception came to a close. Several other gentlemen than those mentioned as speaking were called for, but did not respond as speakers. The gathering was entirely pleasant and social; everything "which cheers but not inebriates" was furnished in abundance; and we venture to say that all present were gratified with both the liberal entertainment and pleased with the success which was its forerunner.

GARIBALDI.—The Boston Traveller well observes that it is regarded as one of the peaceful signs of the times in Europe, that General Garibaldi has publicly announced his wish to be let alone in his retirement; and that he can be no longer visited by the thousands of revolutionists, political refugees, soldiers of fortune inventors and sellers of firearms and implements of destruction, and fortune seekers and agitators in general, who have heretofore swarmed around him, and allowed him no rest nor peace even in his inland home. All such visitors he now determinately shuts out from his presence; which of course he would not do, if he had present intention of moving in any other revolutionary war on Rome. One would think that the noble old soldier would be glad of a little absolute rest, at his time of life—being now his 63rd year—and after more than thirty years of almost constant turmoil and war.

The Soldiers' and Sailors' National Executive Committee met at the Astor House Tuesday. A grand mass convention of soldiers and sailors was decided upon, to be held at Philadelphia on October 1 and 2. Arrangements were made to extend a special invitation to all the leading soldiers and sailors of the war who support Grant and Colfax. The details of the arrangements are placed in the hands of Gen. Collis, chairman, and Gen. Russell, secretary. An address will be prepared and submitted to the Convention, to go forth as the expression of the loyal soldiers and sailors of the country.

Campaign Notes.

The Tribune of Thursday says: It was rumored on the street, yesterday, that the barbers were asking double price for shaving Democrats, owing to the length of their faces on reading the returns from Vermont.

The flags floated above the City Hall yesterday, and one hundred guns were fired in the Park by the Tammany Democracy. Everybody seems to rejoice over the result of the Vermont election.

The Republicans of Jordan, N.Y., have formed a working Grant and Colfax Club, and have already canvassed their election district. It stands ten or twelve better than last year.

The Fourth Ward Republicans of Boston organized a Grant and Colfax Club on the evening of the 1st. Addresses were made by Daniel A. Haskell and others.

Col. R. Stockett Mathews, of Baltimore, addressed the Republicans of Lawrence, Mass., on the 1st. It requires an occasional meeting in Massachusetts to keep people informed that a man named Seymour is on a ticket.

From 3,000 to 4,000 Grant men attended the Orange County Republican Convention at Paoli, Ind., on Saturday. Many of the delegations were headed by bands, everything showed the party to be alive to the issues of the day.

A vote was taken on board the steamer carrying passengers from Washington to Baltimore to the scene of the late fight between Sam Colyer and Billy Edwards, resulting as follows: For Seymour and Blair, 98; for Grant and Colfax, 4.

The largest meeting ever held in Manitowish, Wis., was held on the 26th. Over 200 Grant men were enrolled.

Senator Hendricks and Gov. Baker have agreed to hold joint discussions through the State of Indiana.

The Hon. John Sherman will speak in Pittsburgh next Monday evening, and in Blairsville on Tuesday afternoon.

Logan, Ohio, rejoiced in a huge Grant meeting on the 31st. They give no encouragement to Rebels out in that district.

A great assemblage of Grant men was addressed by Col. R. Emmitt and K. J. Powers, Esq., at Wilkesburg, Penn., last evening.

The "Boys in Blue" of Lawrence County, Penn., are holding meetings in every township in favor of their old leader—Gen. Grant.

The Mobile Tribune counts Gen. Longstreet and Alex. H. Stephens among "the enemy." Lots of Company for them in November.

The Maine Republicans are now having from fifty to seventy-five public meetings, daily.

There is a Democrat at Scarborough, Maine, one hundred years of age. He is old enough to know better.

H. H. Day, the India-rubber man, is talking for Seymour and Blair in Maine.

Hon. Henry C. Deming told the Republicans of Hartford a day or two ago, that he "would as soon trust a sheep to the tender mercy of wolves, a dove to the talons of a hawk, or his family to the guidance and control of a felon, as turn the government of the country over to the men who fought four years to destroy it."

The Chicago Post is wrathful over the Democratic attack upon a Tanner's Club in that city, and says:

If Satan and his legions were not compelled to remain at home in daylight, the democracy would receive a large accession of votes at the next election.

Most of the delegates to the New York Democratic State Convention have arrived at Albany. The friends of Hoffman are very confident, and the indications are that 80 out of the 125 votes will be cast for him on the first ballot.

Hon. George Woodward was yesterday unanimously nominated for Congress by the Democratic convention at Wilkesbarre, Pa.

The Atlanta Era says: "The Republican party in Georgia is rapidly approximating complete organization, and is about ready for effective operation for the great National Union ticket—Grant and Colfax. The party is working harmoniously, and is gathering the clans for a grand demonstration from now until November next."

The New York Democracy has in Pomeroy a "Brick in its hat" which makes it stagger.

Special Notices.

Missisquoi Springs.

ESSEX, Aug. 29, 1868.
For a long time I have been afflicted with a very serious disease of the Kidneys. I was not able to turn over in bed without help, and it was thought by all my friends that I never should recover. All medical treatment had been without effect. The disease was complicated by a serofulous affection. I tried every remedy, used the water of Mineral Springs elsewhere without avail. The Missisquoi Spring water was tried by me in 1866, and I continued its use for several months, till I entirely recovered and am now in better health than I have been for years.

VALLEY HOUSE, Franklin Co., Vt., Aug. 17, '68.

I have been afflicted with Catarrh for three or four years. In February last I had it very severely. In April commenced the use of the Missisquoi water. The discharge was very heavy and troublesome, but continued to lessen until to-day I am entirely well. The many remedies I had taken under the best medical advice had proved unavailing, and I owe it to others similarly afflicted, to state that the Missisquoi water has been, in my case, the only effective means of cure.

Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry.

Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma, Croup, Whooping Cough, Quinsy, and the numerous as well as dangerous diseases of the Throat, Chest, and Lungs, prevail in our changeable climate at all seasons of the year; few are fortunate enough to escape their baneful influence. How important then to have at hand a certain antidote to all these complaints. Experience proves that this exists in Wistar's Balsam to an extent not found in any other remedy; however severe the suffering, the application of this soothing healing and wonderful Balsam at once vanquishes the disease and restores the sufferer to wanted health.

TWENTY YEARS' EXPERIENCE.

MORRIS, Vt., June 28, 1868.
Messrs. S. W. FOWLE & Co., Boston.
Gentlemen:—Having for twenty years past been in the habit of using Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry, in cases of Coughs, Colds, and Pulmonary Affections, I can testify to its great merits with the utmost confidence. I believe it to be the best medicine for these complaints ever used, and have no doubt that the use of it has at three several times saved me from consumption, besides many times in less severe attacks. I am 74 years of age, and for many years have been a subject for pulmonary disease, but by the use of this excellent remedy I keep myself quite comfortable. I can hardly find language to express the exalted opinion I have of the Balsam, and recommend its use to all as the best remedy that can be used. GEORGE DART, Prepared by SETH W. FOWLE & SON, 18 Tremont St. Boston, and for sale by Druggists generally.

ADDRESS To the Nervous & Debilitated.

WHOSE sufferings have been protracted from hidden causes, and whose cases require prompt treatment to render existence desirable: If you are suffering or have suffered, from involuntary discharges, what effect does it produce upon your general health? Do you feel weak, debilitated, easily tired? Does a little extra exertion produce palpitation of the heart? Does your liver, or urinary organs, or your kidneys, frequently get out of order? Is your urine sometimes thick, milky, or bloody, or is itropy on settling? Or does a thick sediment rise on the top? Or is a sediment at the bottom after it has stood awhile? Do you have spells of short breathing or dyspnea? Are your bowels constipated? Do you have spells of fainting, or rushes of blood to the head? Is your memory impaired? Is your mind constantly dwelling upon this subject? Do you feel dull, listless, morose, tired of company, or of life? Do you wish to be left alone, to get away from everybody?—Does any little thing make you start or jump? Is your sleep broken or restless? Is the lustre of your eye as brilliant? Do you enjoy your life in society as well? Do you pursue your business with the same energy? Do you feel as much confidence in yourself? Are your spirits dull and flagging, given to fits of melancholy? If so do not lay it to your liver or dyspepsia. Have you restless nights? Your back weak, your knees weak, and have but little appetite, and you attribute this to dyspepsia or liver-complaint?

Now, reader, self abuse, venereal diseases, badly cured, and sexual excesses, are all capable of producing a weakness of the generative organs. The organs of generation, when in perfect health, make the man. Did you ever think that those bold, defiant, energetic, persevering, successful business men are always those whose generative organs are in perfect health? You never hear such men complain of being melancholy, of nervousness, of palpitation of the heart, they are never afraid they cannot succeed in business; they don't become sad and discouraged; they are always polite and pleasant in the company of ladies, and look you and them right in the face—more of your domestic lacks or other men's about them. I do not mean those inflated by running to excess. These will not only ruin their constitutions, but also those they do business with or for.

How many men, from badly cured diseases, from a neglect of old diseases, and excesses, have brought about that state of weakness in these organs that has reduced the general system so much as to induce almost every other disease—bleeds, insanity, paralysis, spinal affections, suicide, and almost every other form of disease which humanity is heir to, and the real cause of the trouble scarcely ever suspected, and have died for all but the right cure.

Diseases of these organs require the use of a Burrell's HELMBOLD'S LIQUID EXTRACT DUCHU is the great Diuretic, and is a certain cure for diseases of the Bladder, Kidneys, Gravel, Dropsy, Organic Weakness, Female Complaints, General Debility, and all diseases of the Urinary Organs, whether existing in Male or Female, from whatever cause originating, and no matter of how long standing.

If no treatment is submitted to, Consumption or Insanity may ensue. Our flesh and blood are supported from these sources, and the health and happiness, and that of Posterity, depends upon prompt use of a reliable remedy.
